ANDALUSIA.

Those who have nothing to boast of but their ancestors are like a potato—the best part is under ground—and those who have nothing to boast of but themselves are like a lima bean pole, the best part above ground.

The credit of establishing the first Sunday school has generally been ascribed to Robert Raikes. This is an error and it is time it should be corrected. Morgan Jones established a Sunday school at Newtown, Long Island, February 28th, 1633, nearly a century before Mr. Raikes began his efforts in England.

Some time ago a young man named Hans sent a letter to a German lady to which this postscript was added: "That you may make no mistake remember that I will wear a light pair of trousers and a dark cutaway coat. In my right hand I will carry a small cane and in my left a cigar. Yours ever." The father replied stating that his daughter had given him authority to represent her. His postscript was as follows: "Dot mine son may make no mistakes I vil vear in mine right hand a glub, and in mine left hand I vil vear a six shooter. You vil recognize me by the vay I bats you on de head a gouple of times or twice mid de glub. Vait for me at the corner as I have somedings important to inform you mit. Your frent."

Present Lincoln's story of swapping horses while crossing a stream may be found in Harper's Magazine for October 1853.

Benedict Arnold was born January 3rd, 1741. In a paper published May 21st, 1759, there is a reward offered "for the arrest of Benedict Arnold as a deserter, by trade a weaver, 18 years of age, dark complexioned, light eyes and black hair." This was probably the same person who in 1780 proved a traitor to his country. He does not appear to have received any punishment for either of these offences, which certainly is an argument against the belief that our sins are punished in this world.

Funeral services of Thomas Reeves Ash, the well known retired banker, who died recently at his Atlantic City summer home, were held in the church of St. James the Less, Falls of Schuylkill, of which he had for many years been a vestryman. Mr. Ash was born at Dean and Spruce streets, Philadelphia, April 11th, 1833, and was the son of Dr. Thomas Forest Ash and the grandson of James Ash, the friend of Washington, and other of his ancestors were men of note in Colonial and Revolutionary times.

Our public buildings are only three-quarters of an inch short of 548 feet in height. It is the highest building in Philadelphia. William Penn has a fine view of his city. If all the high buildings of New York were placed around him he would overlook them all by about 166 feet unless they have done something lately of which we have not heard.

A good way not to have unkind feelings of anyone, not to have wrong feelings of anyone is to picture to yourself the time when that body will lie cold and still and you would perhaps give the whole world, if it were yours, if you could recall the moment when you spoke unkindly to the soul that once dwelt within it or thought of it in a way which you knew you ought not.

The origin of the name Blizzard being applied to hurricane snow storms is due to Mrs. Caroline Wells. In 1865 there was a man out west who carried on so high and raged so terribly he had to be divorced from his wife. Mrs. Wells was reading about it in the paper, the man's name was Blizzard. A very severe storm soon set in which lasted for three days. After it was over Mrs. Wells said to the family that it was a regular Blizzard and this is how the name came about. Ten years afterwards it was in common use all over the country.

It is an odd fact that the time a woman becomes of age is the day before her twenty-first birthday. Thus if she was born on March 30th, 1885, she is of age today, March 29th, 1906 and any papers she signs today would be legal in so far as her being of age is concerned. In some States, however, women are considered of age in some transactions at eighteen. In Wyoming, Colorado, Utah, and Idaho women vote on equal terms with men at all elections. In 22 other States they possess partial rights, but Pennsylvania does not appear in the list as yet.

A Safe Cough Medicine for Children.

In buying a cough medicine for children never be afraid to buy Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. There is no danger from it and relief is always sure to follow. It is especially valuable for colds, croup and whooping cough. For sale by Emlen Martin, Bristol, wholesale agent for Bucks county.

TULLYTOWN.

Suppose I play a short prelude to warm up my pen.

Of course I know everybody in Tullytown and their antecedents, and whenever a new invoice arrives, and they try to assume airs by not recognizing passersby on the street, I make it a point to go away back and get their genealogy. The incident I desire to relate may be put in parenthesis. (In my migrations up Fallsington avenue, down Lovett and through Main streets, I daily meet men, and I am put to the blush to say women too, that fail to observe the tip of my cap. Then I went all the way down the line, from where they first began to live, up until they landed in Tullytown; the last place in the world to bury blunders in, because the grave yard is full, and we have no lots set apart in which to plant the new fools we meet along the street. Out of our population of six hundred we have from late additions forty-three idiots on our hands. To be prolonged.)

My next is for the boys, but the older folks may read it:

The device I am now about to indite, must have been a dream. In visionary fancy I thought that satan sent his trusted missionaries out to roam over the earth's surface in quest of converts for the regions of despair. The demons came upon a group of school boys, and enticed them through earthly agents to buy blood poisoning cigarettes. Then methinks the boys went off into hiding to smoke, and became truant players from school. There being a pond nearby they went in swimming, and two of the boys were drowned, and I was startled into half wakefulness, by the howl of joy that rose up from perdition to mingle with the lamentations in the homes of the boys. Again in dreamful thought I saw a caravan of Christian pilgrims crossing a desert void. And the evil emissaries caused the water in the brooks to become parched up and all the Christians famished in the desert place from great thirst. Then his satanic majesty recalled the band of imps, saying, "you did wrong in destroying the pilgrims, now they are all in the house of many mansions; whereas, if you had spared them, we might in the time to come have gathered some of them in."

These two little allegories may serve as a lesson; first, boys that smoking cigarettes and playing truant, are sure to come to some bad end. Second, in this life it is wise to prepare for the life to come We know not what a day may bring forth.

It has always been a wonder to many of our oldest residents, just why the people as a majority should take every new comer into the town and make of them not only bosom confidants, but elevate them to positions of honor and trust, in the social, religious and political life. One would suppose from having been so often and so shamefully imposed upon and deceived; that they would become more guarded. You all remember the two men that we carried on our shoulders on flowery beds of political ease, and how they afterward tumbled into the gutter, and crawled out and went away into everlasting dishonor. You all remember the evangelical salvationists that shed bitter tears over the vice and intemperance of Tullytown, and how the leader of the band afterward came down here to hold a Belshazzar impious feast. And the people cried "Tekel, thou art weighed and found wanting." That night was this Belshazzar warned to keep out of Tullytown or he would be slain. Oh, Tullytown, thou that killest the old residenters, and stonest them which are most fit for office, how often would I have saved thee from disgrace and ye would not. See my text, Matthew 23:38.

Are you a believer in dreams? No, of course not, unless you have credence in apparitions. Well I don't believe in either, but nevertheless last winter after dinner in sleepful fancy I thought that the afternoon was overcast with storm clouds. The north winds were blowing and the variations of temperature registered ten degrees above nothing And I thought a funeral procession had been invited to assemble at one o'clock. The clock struck one and I awoke, and in looking out at the window, strange to relate a funeral train of carriages had formed in line, and there they remained for two hours The mercury was low down. I went out upon the street and inquired of one of the shivering hackman, "What is the cause of this delay?" "Why, we are waiting for that long winded speaker, warming himself along side a red hot stove, to say 'amen.'" This is another delicate subject, but having entered upon it must in truth say, that brevity would not only have spiced the service, but greatly obliged the servers.

A writer in the "Delaware Valley Advance," upon a date so long ago I forget just when, observed that Bristol in the worldly gaining profit point of view, held many rich men, but only one millionaire. And that leads me to say, with the mental eye I can survey in Tullytown some rich men, but nobody worth a million, excepting it be those that put on more airs than you can readily count. I have seen men though at certain epochs that could buy the town, their pocket books were so heavy. Someone has said, "millionaires and paupers never laugh." Perhaps they are thinking of the great gulf that has been fixed.

In rummaging through an old scrap book I find the following description of "Milady's purse."

She was an heiress, and the purse
She carried in her dainty hand
Might well the fortunes reimburse
Of any spendthrift in the land.
At least most men imagined so,
Yet, they for years might rack their brains,
And after all would never know
The total wealth that purse contains.
So here in full we give the list,
From which no item has been missed.
A bit of string, a button hook,
A clipping from a cooking book,
A little Turkish cigarette,
A bit of gum (unused as yet.)
Samples of gingham, organdie,
Chiffon, crepon and dimity,
Besides a shred of mousseline
De Soie, a wornout safety pin,
A collar button made of bone,
A lock of hair (perhaps her own),
A fashionable modiste's card,
A strip of blue and white foulard,
A picture postal card from Rome,
And half-a-dime to take her home.

On Monday of last week she underwent an operation at the McKinley Holpital, Trenton, and blood poisoning set in, which resulted in her death on Wednesday night. She had been a member of the Penns Manor Chapel and Christian Endeavor Society for several years and leaves many friends to mourn her loss. The parents and family of the deceased received the sympathy of the entire community in their great bereavement. The funeral services conducted by Rev. C. G. Book, were held on Saturday at the home of her father. The numerous floral pieces presented by friends and the different departments of the church were very beautiful. Interment was made at Tullytown cemetery.

Letter to Miss Louisa Baggs.

Dear Madam: You are a teacher; here's one for your boys:

If the painting costs two or three times as much as the paint, and one paint goes twice as far as another, how much are those two paints worth?

If Devoe is worth $1.50 or $1.75 a gallon, how much is the other one worth?

How much is a gallon of paint worth anyhow?

The answer is: Depends on the paint.

The reason is: paint isn't always paint. There are true and false paint and short mesure. How much is a short-measure gallon worth? How much is false paint worth? How much is Devoe worth?

There are millions a year in the answer to this last one.

Yours truly
F W DEVOE & Co

Champion Liniment for Rheumatism.

Chas. Drake, a mail carrier at Chapinville, Conn., says: "Chamberlain's Pain Balm is the champion of all liniments. The past year I was troubled a great deal with rheumatism in my shoulder. After trying several cures the storekeeper here recommended this remedy and it completely cured me." There is no use of anyone suffering from that painful ailment when this liniment can be obtained for a small sum. One application gives prompt relief and its continued use for a short time will produce a permanent cure. For sale by Emlen Martin, Bristol, wholesale agent for Bucks county.

Announcement is made that the seventeen-year locusts are coming this year to spread destruction over the land. As a matter of fact the seventeen-year locusts come so often that they no longer frighten anybody.

COUNTY SEAT NEWS

By our Doylestown Correspondent.

Doylestown, March 27, 1906.

Newspapers as educators are highly endorsed by Principal Carmon Ross, of the public schools here, and in an interview the other day, in telling of the great value of the High School reading table, which is an institution here, he said: "A reading table well stocked with newspapers and magazines is a necessity in our schools. This is a day of daily newspapers and the sooner we realize that all history is not between the covers of text books the more efficient will the teaching in our schools become. Nothing marks the intelligence of any person better than an acquaintance with current events. Who can deny the immense value the daily newspapers and magazines can contribute toward the making of citizenship, which falls largely to the public schools? And besides teaching history and civic virtue the agency of the press is good in giving a stimulus to the study of literature." It certainly seems very sensible argument, and Prof. Ross should know because the High School has its reading table where newspapers and magazines are placed for the students, and once a week the seniors have a newspaper class in which the various events of the week in local, state, national and foreign matters are discussed.

Miss Jane McGrum died here this week at the ripe old age of 93 years. She was fairly active up to shortly before she passed away and was probably the oldest resident of the county seat.

Judge Mahlon H. Stout has approved Sheriff Albert S. Paxson's appointments at the jail. William C. Fletcher will be head jailer and Howard W. Douglass will act as under jailer.

County Superintendent James M. Shelly has announced the dates and places where applicants for teachers' certificates may take the examination in the middle and upper districts of the county. Applicants, he says, should be at least 18 years of age. The first one will be held here on June 11.

George P. Brock, former cashier of the Doylestown National Bank, was convicted of misapplication of the funds of the bank prior to the collapse, last week, by the United States Distict Court, Philadelphia, after deliberating but four hours. The trial was a lengthy one in which everything possible was brought out on both sides. Judge McPherson showed a disposition to give the defendant the benefit of everything which would make his trial a fair one and his charge, if anything, was in Brock's favor. The verdict was not a great surprise as those familiar with the facts believed confidently that the jury could not find otherwise. As in the Lear case motion was made for a new trial and Brock was admitted to bail.

Doylestown bowlers met defeat on Thursday evening when a five man Sonderton team won out by a margin of 100 pins in five games.

Lieutenant Charles A. Cuffel, who accompanies the party of Bucks county members of Durell's Battery Association to see the monument unveiled at Vicksburg, Miss., has sent home postal cards and on one of these he writes: "Arrived in time for the President's reception. He has a warm spot in his heart for Civil War veterans. There are ten of the battery with us."

Upon recommendation of the Court the County Commissioners have remitted the costs in the cases of Annie Fisher and Eva Simpson. The Board was also signed the assessors' transcripts and the military enrollment books for 1906. Four petitions were received from the supervisors of Newtown, Northampton and Warwick townships, asking the Commissioners to join them in petitioning the State Highway Department for State aid in improving sections of the roads. Bills were also passed amounting to $3960.44.

Evangelist Wm. E. Giel, of this place, who is conducting meetings in Hull, England, writes that he is having excellent success, since leaving a sanitarium in Scotland where he was ill.

Spring movings have started here but they are few. Never before in years have there been so few houses with modern conveniences for rent. New industries locating here has caused a great demand for them but so far none have beed built and many families are boarding. There surely is a great opportunity for some enterprising man to build a number of residences or to put up an apartment house, for that really seems to be the trend here as many people simply have apartments and get their meals at hotels or private boarding houses.

An unusual proceeding took place before Judge Stout here on Saturday morning, and a surprising thing happened It occurred when the Court ordered the ballot book of Northampton township opened and a recount made to decide whether John Finney was elected Supervisor, as the election officers certified, or whether M. Walter Cooper, his Republican opponent, was chosen to hold the office as he alleged. The recount showed that the certificate of election was wrong and that Mr. Cooper was really the Supervisor-elect.

When the election officers declared after the election, that Mr. Finney was elected, Mr. Cooper and his friends who had kept tally as the votes were called off disputed the assertion and the result showed they were right. Instead of Mr. Finney, having a majority of two votes, Mr. Cooper won out by a margin of five votes. The Court ordered that the township pay the costs.

Winfield Chambers, of this place and Miss Hannah Tanner, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. C. Tanner, of Easton, were married Thursday at the home of the bride in Philadelphia. Mr. Chambers is chief clerk of the Philadelphia & Easton Railway Company. They will take a trip through the South and on their return reside here.

By a special service on Sunday night the congregation of the First Baptist Church celebrated the birthday of Fanny Crosby, the Queen of American hymnology. Hymns written by this famous composer and advocate of the blind were sung by the choir, a male quartette, a mixed quartete and soloists, and Pastor Gilmore made an address in which he told of the venerable old lady who is now living and writing hymns which are sung thoughout the world, although she is 86 years of age.

Poor Directors held their meeting today and Steward Bunting reported the number of inmates as 153. During the month there was one death and eleven discharged. Bills were passed amounting to $2077.16.

A Chicago Alderman Owes His Election to Chamberlain's Cough Remedy.

"I can heartily and conscientiously recommend Chamberlain's Cough Remedy for affections of the throat and lungs," says Hon. John Shenick, 220 So. Peoria St., Chicago. "Two years ago during a political campaign I caught cold after being overheated, which irritated my throat and I was finally compelled to stop, as I could not speak aloud. In my extremity a friend advised me to use Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. I took two doses that afternoon and could not believe my senses when found the next morning the inflammation had largely subsided. I took several doses that day, kept right on taking through the campaign, and I thank this medicine that won my seat in the Council." This remedy is for sale by Emlen Martin, Bristol, wholesale agent for Bucks county.

J. Pierce Flowers and family, who have been spending the winter in Philadelphia, will return this week.

Dr. Lewis Adler and wife and Mr. and Mrs. Silas Tomlinson, of Philadelphia, were guests at Dr. Henry Lovett's on Sunday.

Mrs. Howard Reifsnyder, Mrs. Jesse Lukens and Mrs. Edgar H. Porter, of Philadelphia, were among Langhorne visitors.

Mrs. Eliza Ambler entertained a few friends on Friday evening at which Prof. H. G. Walters gave several very enjoyable readings.

Russell Saxton, who has been ill with scarlet fever for five weeks is now home with Mrs. Marmaduke Saxton and will soon be able to go out.

The ten weeks of special service in the Presbyterian Church began this Monday evening. Good speakers have been secured for all the meetings.

Miss Lucy M. Burd gave a talk on birds to the scholars of the public schools on Friday morning under the auspices of the Educational Committee of Sorosis.

Joseph Esherick and family who have been spending the winter season at Germantown, returned on Friday to their attractive home, "Wyndhurst," Langhorne Manor.

There have been several applicants looking over the property of George Reed, known as the Mitchell place. Owing to Mr. Reed's ill health, he would prefer to sell rather than move from his farm.

When a horse picks up a nail in his foot what does the driver do? Does he whip the limping, lagging animal and force him along? Not unless he wants to ruin the horse. At the first sign of lameness he jumps down, examines the foot and carefully removes the cause of the lameness. What is called "weak stomach" is like the lameness of the horse, only cured by removing the cause of the trouble. If you stimulate the stomach with "whiskey medicines" you keep it going, but every day the condition is growing worse. A few doses sometimes of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery will put the disordered stomach and its allied organs of digestion and nutrition in perfect condition. Ninety-eight times in every hundred "Golden Medical Discovery" will cure the worst ailments originating in diseases of the stomach. It always helps. It almost always cures. To cure constipation use Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets. They're sure.

YARDLEY.

Mrs. Frank Scott, who has been on the sick list, is reported as recovering.

Wallace Buckman, of Trenton, was a business visitor in Yardley on Monday of this week.

Little Edward Large is confined to his home at this time with an attack of chicken-pox.

Mrs. Alfred Ely, of Atlantic City, is the guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. L. L. White at this time.

Mahlon B. Knowles, a student at Lafayette College, is spending the spring vacation at his home in Yardley.

Irvin Scattergood, who is confined to his home in Yardley with a severe attack of the la grippe, is reported as improving at this time.

On account of increased business at the Yardley National Bank, Arthur Stackhouse has been employed as an additional clerk.

Miss Elizabeth Large, a student at the State Normal Schools at West Chester, is spending the spring vacation at her home in Yardley.

Mrs. Letitia W. Twining who is now making her home with her daughter, Mrs. Clarkson Wilson, at Baltimore, was in Yardley a few days this week.

There will be a meeting of the Daughters of the King, an organization connected with the Episcopal Church, in the church house on Saturday afternoon next.

Miss Elsie Cadwallader and her two brothers, Algernon and Augustus, all students at the George School, spent Saturday and Sunday at their home in Yardley.

Mrs. Anna Roberts, who is living on her brother's farm, T. C. Search, had the misfortune to fall Monday from the top of a flight of four steps with such force that she broke both of her arms and cut a gash in her forehead. Dr. Bassett, of Yardley and Dr. Smith, of Newtown, were called in on the case.

Miss Emma Howell, who recently went to Philadelphia to undergo an operation on her eyes, has had it partially performed. One half of the obstruction was removed and the other half will be taken away in the course of a couple of weeks. In the meantime Miss Howell will be the guest of friends in Philadelphia.

A committee of gentlemen appointed by the Rev. Joseph Wood, minister in charge of St. Andrew's Church, attended a convention of men at the Episcopal Church house in Philadelphia, on Thursday evening as representatives of their local church. The object of the meeting was to organize for the coming Thanksgiving celebration which is to be held in Virginia in 1907 in commemoration of three hundred years of Christian religion in the country.

LOWER BENSALEM.

John Vansant, of Lower Bensalem, is ill.

The coming of spring is hailed with joy among all the people.

People as they Pass

Written for the Gazette.

The circle is invaluable to most modern essayists. It gives them the cue they need to round out the aimless range of their vain attempts to make plain that which is beyond human power of elucidation. So long as man shall think, the temptation of reaching to the unattainable is ever at his side, and he cannot resist it. Like one who is lost in a thick woods, he thinks he is progressing in a direct, straight away line, but finds himself, sooner or later, at the point of starting. So with the essays, lectures and little volumes that now and again appear concerning the unknowable. With confidence, the author launches forth, follows the circle that he sees not and brings his readers back to the point of beginning. He thinks to lead from one definite point to another, but it proves never to be another; to pass from the statement of a fact to the goal of an indisputable conclusion, but ever fails, and what the reader hoped to learn, he learns not but discovers he is still as ignorant as at the commencement.

All that is really within the bounds of our knowledge is that we must in some things remain in the dark. If our earthly career does not in good time unfold what we would know, let eternity bring it to light. Avoid the certain vexation of spirit incident to vain imaginings. Man is the creature of each day as it passes and his capacity is limited to it alone. The power that sets the day and makes the man a feature of it, alone is equal to dispose of him when other days shall come. Much is lost by fruitless effort to explore the forbidden regions of the future. Discourse on that which is incomprehensible unfits us for the task of realizing all that which the present stands for. Let the dead past bury its dead and the unborn future withhold that for which we are not prepared. This hypothetical future is ahead, but all our efforts to reach it only result in travelling not in its direction but in a circle. We assume at the start and face only an assumption at the finish.

"Very weak theology," remarks my neighbor.

"True," I reply, "but it is sound, common sense."

It is highly commendible to be accommodating. Society would be at a loss to move smoothly and without serious jarring if we were not so. Experience has shown that to be considerate is imperative, if temper is not to be forever ruffled, but there is the old story of use and abuse to be kept constantly in mind. The way in which we should be careful is in making ourselves the temporary custodians of another's correspondence. We are asked to mail a letter and promise to do. In so small a matter, one cannot well decline, but alas! human memory is not yet perfected. The intention is all that could be expected but what of the performance? Sometimes we forget and what a sense of horror takes hold on us, when we find we have carried that letter for a month and all the while the writer thereof has been expecting a reply. Whoever framed an excuse equal to such an occasion? The more we explain the worse seems the fault and as well battle with quicksands as with the woman who has been inconvenienced. Never is silence so ineffectually broken as when you protest on the grounds of forgetfulness.

Nothing is more funny, so far as I can find, than the learned discussions that frequently occur concerning American aristocracy. The ignorance of history displayed at such a time, is really amazing and let some people who are "leaders" talk as they will, their aristocratic claims, in the European sense, have no warrantable basis, inasmuch as they can show nothing but a bank account.

That in every considerable community an intellectual aristocracy can be found, no one can deny, but it is not always centred in that section of a town where are the finest houses. Try some pretentious people by any other than the commercial test and they are found sadly wanting. They can chatter like magpies, it is true, but cannot sustain an intellectual conversation for ten minutes. They are people that have, but are not people that know. They pose a great deal but are no more great characters than theatrical stars are Julius Caesar or the unhappy Dane.

This subject was exploited in the papers of a nearby, overgrown, village, not long since, and the truth as presented by one was not relished by the several who replied. But the one was right. Snobbishness will crop out whenever shamocratic nabobs gather.

It is one thing to impertinently listen to what is not intended for your ears and another to incidentally overhear. What follows, I recently overheard in a car as it rattled through Radcliffe street:

"Most women are so queer,' he said.

"And most men a good deal more so," she replied snappishly.

Would it not, I thought, be unfortunate if we were not all a little queer? It is, in all probability, this quality that, like salt in a salad, brings out our individual flavor. Without queerness, as it is called, we would run a risk of being a trifle stale and flat, if not unprofitable. It is the unfortunate quality of some queerness that excites remark, and only its excess that is objectionable. But of the two sexes which is, in the long run the more queer is a question not likely to be satisfactorily answered.

Greatness that is not evident to all is scarcely the genuine article. Greatness should need no explanation, or at most, only the intricacies of its anatomy need a demonstration. The people as they pass know the sun as such. They need nothing of astronomical knowledge to appreciate what the sun stands for, light, heat and even life itself. How can an author be truly great who needs an expositor? He must, at least, have occasional flashes of keen common sense. If not, it is greatness under a bushel Candles in caves do not light the world.

THE SAN JOSE SCALE.

Unless there are drastic methods adopted to counteract the deadly ravages of the San Jose scale it will not be long before fruit-raising will be a thing of the past in Bucks county. In every section of the county the minute scale has infected the orchards to an alarming extent and it threatens to destroy our fruit trees unless something is done to arrest the work of devastation.

There seems to be only one method of successfully challenging the work of the destroying scale and that is by spraying. At a great deal of expense the State Agriculture Department, under the able guidance of Prof. H. A. Surface, the economic zoologist, has undertaken a campaign of practical education by demonstrating the application of insecticides. Experience has proved to the department that the boiled lime-sulphur wash is the most effectual and economical spray that can be used in the orchards. The time to spray the trees is NOW, or at any time before the buds burst.

It is very important for all persons who have trees to ascertain if the scale is upon them, and if so to treat them thoroughly with the lime-sulphur wash before the buds burst this spring. It is best to spray the trees from four different directions in order to have the liquid applied entirely to all branches and twigs to the very tips.

In regard to the efficiency in killing sca'e, freedom to injury to trees, and cheapness of original cost and methods of application, there is no insecticide that can equal the boiled lime-sulphur wash.

It is slightly troublesome to make but it has great advantages. Among these are the following: The exact proportions are not necessary. If a person should get a little too much or too little of any one ingredient he does not injure the efficiency of the wash in killing the scale nor will he thereby inflict any injury upon his trees. There is no possible danger of applying too much of this material to any kind of tree, as in using the oils which have been unduly advertised and applied with such disastrous results. No special apparatus of any unusual make is necessary in either making or applying this material. It can be applied at any time of year when the trees are not in leaf. By its white coating the operator can readily see what spots may have been missed and can thus be sure of the chance to retouch them, and the person who engages another to spray his trees can see for himself if the work has been thoroughly and properly done. It is a fungicide as well as an insecticide and cleans up many of the disease germs, such as those causing leaf curl, ripe rot, leaf spots, rusts, smuts, mildews, bitter rot, apple scab, pear crack, black rot and other diseases of leaves or fruits. It is not injurious in any proportion nor any amount upon any kind of tree even of the most delicate varieties. It is very cheaply made, costing but a little over a cent per gallon when dilute and ready to apply to the trees. Of no other known insecticide can the above statements be truly made. Prof. Surface unhesitatingly recommends it as absolutely the best, cheapest and safest remedy for controlling the San Jose scale, and the slight trouble in making it is reduced to insignificance if the operator be provided with apparatus even no more complicated than two or three iron kettles set into a rough furnace or protected by stone walls along each side to retain the heat and keep the wind from blowing the flames away.

The lime-sulphur wash is made according to several formulae, one of which is the following:

Lime, 22 pounds.
Flower of Sulphur, 17 pounds.
Salt, 10 pounds.
Water, enough to boil. Boil one hour, strain, and add water to make 50 gallons.

nother simple formula that is easily remembered and just as effective is as follows:

Fresh lime, flowers of sulphur, each 15 pounds. Water enough to boil for one hour. Strain and add water to make 45 gallons.

Sheriff Aaron was nominated for State Senator in 1902 but was defeated for that office by the present Senator, Webster Grim, of Doylestown. Since that time Sheriff Aaron had been closely identified with the Republican Organization as a leader, and his name was prominently mentioned recently in connection with the Republican nomination for State Senator next fall, although it is understood that he had been induced by the Organization to retire in favor of another candidate favorable to the re-election of United States Senator Penrose. Sheriff Aaron was frequently elected by his party as delegate to various political conventions and served as a member to the Counoty Committee.—Doylestown Democrat.

The Democrat even invades the death chamber in order to obtain an excuse for the perpetration of its political conspiracy. Sheriff Aaron's name has never been mentioned or even thought of in connection with next fall's Senatorial nomination. The nomination does not belong in this end of the county, and well the Democrat knows it, and the statement that the deceased was "induced to retire in favor of another candidate favorable to the re-election of Senator Penrose," is a lying insinuation calculated to make political capital for Senator Grim, the owner of the Democrat, who displays his untrustworthiness for public position by the false, cheap and underhand manner in which he seeks to destroy public confidence in an opponent, who will beat him to death in the Senatorial race next fall—providing Grim has the nerve to run.

First we send missionaries to save the heathen. Then we send gunboats to save the missionaries.

THE TWO-TERM RULE.

The editor of the Jenkintown Times-Chronicle, maker of Assemblymen; Burgess of the borough; a leader of independent Republican thought and politics in his section; former president of the Press League of Bucks and Montgomery counties, and "many other things too numerous to mention," had something to say last week which sounded as sweet as tinkling cymbals to our ears.

We do not at present know if we ever will want to have a third-term in the Legislature, but nevertheless Editor Clayton's argument, which has reference to Assemblyman Ambler has a pleasant sound. Here it is:

Since the apportionment of Montgomery county into legislative districts those outside of their own district will have little say as to who shall go to the Legislature from Montgomery county in the future. In the past no matter how beneficial a man became to his home district and his State in legislative affairs; no matter if his ability shone resplendent throughout the Commonwealth, and it would naturally be supposed that his energy called for political promotion, after he had been at Harrisburg during two terms of the Legislature, the old mediaeval-like custom intervened and he was retired because of the two-term rule, and thus many a bright exhalation has ceased to shine that might have reflected glory on Montgomery county. Thus B. Whitman Dambly, J. Beans Goentner, and other good men have been obliged to retire from legislative work in recent years just when they had learned what was necessary to accomplish good for their county, and after they had simply gotten acquainted with the men who do things at the State Capitol. No one can doubt that "Farmer" Creasy is a power for good for the State in the Assembly, but it is only in recent years that he has become active, whereas he has served his district in that august body for nearly or quite a score of years. That district has cause to feel proud of the man that represents it at present, but if it had observed the fossilized two-term rule its member could have accomplished nothing. We have always felt that the people in this Congressional district acted wisely in returning Mr. Wanger to Congress term after term. When one goes to Washington now he feels proud that our Congressman is taken into consideration in national affairs, and is always reckoned with by statesmen. Even a man of Mr. Wanger's great ability could accomplish nothing at Washington in two terms and while that rule was adhered to for a long time, intelligence finally triumphed, and a man has been returned for many years, and he is now a power for good for the whole country.

The Bordentown Register suggests that the New Jersey legislature make the open season for autos from Thanksgiving to Washington's birthday.

UNIFORM DIVORCE LAWS.

The work of the national convention which met recently in Washington upon the call of Governor Pennypacker, to recommend the adoption of uniform divorce laws in the several states will be of interest from an academic standpoint and will doubtless lead to the enactment of more uniform laws in a majority of the states, simplifying the work of the divorce lawyer. It will be many years however before states like South Dakota can be induced to forfeit their corner on the rich New Yorkers who leave hundreds of thousands annually to increase the per capita wealth and to stimulate the millinery and hotel business in a few of the larger cities like Sioux Falls.

It is a difficult problem to make people live together after they have agreed that they are mutually incompatible. It is difficult to keep people after they are divorced from marrying other people they think they want and it is just as difficult to keep people from marrying in the first instance out of mercenary or sentimental motives.

The man or woman who secures a divorce and then remarries simply for the sake of variety in domestic companionship is just as much guilty of adultery from a moral standpoint as the one who lives in open meretricious relations is guilty of adultery from a legal standpoint.

And so long as the bonds of love are not strong enough to keep men and women in the straight and narrow path, it will be difficult to force them into line by more stringent laws. The best cure for the social evil as well as the best divorce regulator is the development of a healthy public opinion which would make it unpopular for married men and women even in high society to play fast and loose with other men's wives and other women's husbands or to secure divorces simply for the sake of remarrying. In so far as the proposed uniformity of divorce laws promotes the establishment of such a public opinion it will do good.

The coming Legislative contest in Chester county promises to be a spirited and lively affair. According to the Village Record about twenty Republicans have signified their intentions to enter the contest and some of them are men with large personal followings. By the re-apportionment Chester county will be entitled to but three members of the Assembly instead of four. It is believed that the present members will seek another term. We do not believe, however, that they will agree, that in event of election, they will serve without pay, as they did at the extra session.

The extent to which drugs are used throughout the country is almost inconceivable. Victims of morphine, cocaine, chloral, laudanum, opium and other forms of "dope" may be found in almost every community, many of whom are unsuspected of the fatal habits. Leading druggists in every large town and city in the State, could reveal a list of patrons in above line that would be startling if published. The occasional or even habitual consumer of strong drink is regarded with pity or disgust by many of these slaves to a habit tenfold more harmful and vicious, from which death is seemingly the only escape.

DEATH OF SHERIFF AARON

Died Suddenly Last Thursday Afternoon at His Office in Yardley.

The friends of Ex-Sheriff Irvin Aaron, of Yardley, were shocked to learn of his sudden death on Thursday afternoon. Mr. Aaron was well known in Bristol and throughout the county. He was an active member of the Republican organization and was of such a kind and genial disposition that his loss will be sincerely mourned.

The deceased was engaged in the coal and lumber business at Yardley with Carlton E. Rich, under the firm name of Aaron & Rich, and their trade in that line was quite extensive. Mr. Aaron had not been in the best of health for some time past, but no immediate alarm was felt by either his family or friends regarding his condition. On Thursday he was in his usual health, and in the afternoon when his teams and men were elsewhere engaged, he took the one-horse wagon and delivered a quarter-ton of coal to a customer living on Canal street, a short distance from the yard. He unloaded the coal and returned to the office about 3 o'clock. A short time after his arrival, Charles Freeder, an employe, noticed that Mr. Aaron was not well, and helped him from the wagon. He was assisted to the door step of the office and expired immediately. Dr. H. Linn Bassett was summoned, but life was extinct when he arrived. Heart disease was pronounced the cause of death. He was at once placed in the carriage of Caleb Scattergood, which has standing near by, and the body taken to his home on Afton avenue. The news of his death was a great shock to his wife. Mr. Aaron came to Yardley in the spring of 1891, and in company with Joseph R. Comly, for whom he had filled the position of deputy sheriff, engaged in the coal and lumber business. At the time of his death he was chairman of the Republican borough committee, an active member of the Pastime Social Club and a director of the Yardley Water Company. He was also a member of Aquetong Lodge of Odd Fellows, at Doylestown.

The funeral took place on Monday afternoon and was largely attended by friends of the deceased from all sections of the county. The interment was made in the graveyard of St Andrew's P. E. Church.

The bearers were: A. J. Cadwallader, H. V. Comly, T. S. Cadwallader, Joseph Palmer, S. B. Willard and Carlton E. Rich.

The honorary pallbearers were: The Hon. Mahlon H. Stout, John O. Swartley, Thomas Ross, H. B. Eastburn, Henry O. Harris, William O. Ryan, all of Doylestown; E. W. Minster and Joseph Grundy, of Bristol; Evan Penrose, Dr. Joseph Thomas, Christopher Golick and Jonas Harley, Quakertown; William H. Woolery, Newtown; Franklin B. Buckman, Trenton; Henry Y. Pickering, Yardley.

Irvin Aaron was born in Hilltown township, this county, April 22d, 1842, of Welsh and German ancestry. His parents were Derostus and Caroline (Bodder) Aaron. He was reared in his native township, attended school there, and remained upon his home farm until after his father's death. In 1861 he went to Montgomery county and engaged in farming for one year. He then returned to Bucks county, locating near Johnsville, Warminster township, where he worked at farming for seventeen years, being employed by the year. In January, 1879, he assumed the duties of deputy sheriff, under Saumel L. Ely, serving for three years. Then for four years he was occuped as a salesman for windmills. In 1886 he again became deputy sheriff, and served for five years, two under Elias Eastburn and three under Joseph R. Comly.

In the fall of 1890 he received, by acclamation, the Republican nomination for sheriff, but was defeated with the rest of that party's ticket, though he led it by several hundred votes. He had 8128 votes to 8243 for J. Johnson Beans, Democrat. In the spring of 1891 he formed a partnership with Ex-Sheriff Joseph R. Comly, under the firm name of Comly & Aaron, and embarked in the coal and lumber business at Yardley. He was thus engaged until 1896, when the Republicans again nominated him for sheriff. This time he was elected, his majority over his Democratic opponent, William G. Selner, being 2806—9720 to 6914. At the expiration of his term of office he returned to Yardley and resumed the coal and lumber business, in which he continued actively engaged until the day of his death. In 1902 he was the nominee of his party for State Senator, but in the political unsettlement of that year he was defeated with the major portion of the Republican county ticket. He received 7758 votes to 8115 votes for Webster Grim, Democrat.

In 1893 he married Sarah P. Weiss, of Doylestown, a daughter of William B. and Amanda Wiess, who survives. They were the parents of one child that died in infancy.

Republican Convention.

The Republicans of Bucks county will meet in convention in Lenape Hall in the borough of Doylestown, in said county, on Monday, April ninth, 1906, at 11 o'clock a. m., to elect five delegates to represent the county of Bucks in the Republican State convention to be held at the Lyceum Theatre in Harrisburg, Pa., on the sixth day of June next.

Peanuts vs. Pork.

Notwithstanding the difference between the prices paid for wheat and corn, the latter commodity, by reason of its immense volume, yields to the country the larger gross income.

When the corn crop is unusually large and prices not unusually low, the western farmer prospers and in turn the railroads through his territory pay dividends; manufacturers make money and the commercial conditions generally are good.

It requires only a short memory to recall the time when corn, year after year, was burned for fuel, or allowed to rot ungathered in the fields. This was when corn was fed to cattle and meal entered very little into the diet list of man. The west used some corn, so did the south, but in the east it was almost unknown and Europeans regarded it as unfit for food.

The grit, determination and energy of the west was concentrated to conquer this condition and a united movement was engineered to instruct non-users of corn how this important food product might be utilized.

Western expositions, state fairs, and country shows had corn palaces, and representatives were sent to the Atlantic seaboard and across the ocean, exhibiting at all the great centers corn and its products. Now, that cereal is never burned unless a careless cook forgets her duty.

At the Jamestown Exposition the southerners have determined to emulate the wisdom of their western brethern and will erect an immense peanut palace where this esculent tuber will hold sway.

German chemists have recently proven the nutritive value of the peanut and the ration of the soldied contains sausages made of peanuts. It is very nutritious, pleasing to the taste, and contains more units of food energy than a sausage of similar size made from pork.

The peanut as ordinarilly used roasted, is undoubtedly toothsome and gently soporific. Most mild cases of insomnia yield to a late supper of peanuts. In candy it is known to many, but its use is by no means general. Peanut butter, peanut brittle, ground peanuts for sandwiches, have a certain vogue, but it is restricted.

The by-products of peanuts are many and useful, yet, year after year, peanut planters use their plants as fertilizing material, cutting them down and plowing them under to enrich the earth.

The Peanut Palace of Jamestown Exposition is intended like the corn palaces of the west, to be not a final undertaking, but the beginning of a movement in bringing to the peanut its due mead of appreciation.

Fashions Caused by Deformities.

Of the close connection between fashion and deformity there are many examples. Through illness Philip the Good had to have his head shaved. Shaven heads, accordingly, perforce, became fashionable at his court.

The daughters of Louis XI. hid their very large feet in long dresses; hence trailing gowns.

The wife of Philip III. set the fashion of high collars in disguising her long neck with a wimple.

Henry Plantagenet introduced boots with extravagantly curved toes to conceal a growth on one of his feet.

Louis XIV. wore a wig to cover unsightly wens on his head, while James I. adopted voluminous trunk hose, afterward fashionable, to hide hip disease.

Bruises.

No treatment for bruises is more prompt and efficacious than fomentations as hot as can be borne. Firm compression immediately over the injured place will often prevent discoloration, but the hot application will have the same effect. The sooner the heat can be applied the better. Alternate applications of heat and cold are very effective. For all bruises, except those on the head, heat is the remedy, but for severe blows on the head cold is doubtless better. Fomentations may be used at intervals to lessen the soreness, but should not be continued more than five minutes at a time.

Great Britain.

The island of Great Britain—so called to distinguish it from Britain Minor, of Little Britain, in France—is the largest island in Europe. Its greatest length is 608 miles and its greatest breadth 320 miles. It embraces England, Scotland and Wales. No other country in the world has such great mineral wealth in so small an area. Coal is first, and the other important minerals are iron, tin, copper, lead, silver, zinc, iron pyrites and salt.

Public School Notes.

The School Directors and teachers of the Bristol public schools have planned to celebrate next Wednesday evening, April 4th, the 114th anniversary of the birth of Thaddeus Stevens, one of the greatest statesmen whoever represented Pennsylvania in Congress. But it is because of what the schools owe to him that we hold these exercises next Wednesday evening, at 8 o'clock. It is true that very few people of the present day know much about Thaddeus Stevens and the great work he did for Pennsylvania, but we believe it is well to honor one who did so much for the cause of education. On Wednesday evening the address of the evening will be made by Prof. Smith Burnham, professor of History in West Chester State Normal School. We have heard Prof. Burnham and believe that our friends will greatly enjoy him. All the friends and patrons of our schools are cordially invited to be present and we hope for a large audience. There is no admission charged. The high and grammar schools will furnish the music for the occasion and we believe the evening will be both profitable and interesting. While we cannot offer another lecture course this spring, we are glad to have this opportunity of another pleasant evening. LOUISE D. BAGGS.

Although the system of standard time was first established 22 years ago one still hears, occasionally, of "sun time."

MR. KEELER IS HONORED

Joseph R. Grundy is Host at Pleasant Luncheon Given County Committeemen in Honor of Retiring Chairman.

Joseph R. Grundy, of Bristol, was the host at a delightful luncheon given at the Fountain House, Doylestown, on Saturday last in honor of E. Wesley Keeler, the retiring chairman of the Republican County Committee. Invitations had been issued to the members of the committee, a number of prominent Republicans and the editors of the Republican and independent newspapers of the county.

Promptly after the meeting of the County Committee the members assembled at the Fountain House where they were cordially received in the parlors on the second floor by Messrs. Grundy and Keeler. At 12.30 the guests were ushered into the dining room where tables were beautifully laid for covers for over one hundred persons and an elegant menu, as follows, was served:

Cherry Stone Clams
Celery Olives
Green Turtle Soup
Sliced Tomatoes
Roast Turkey
Oyster Sauce Glazed Sweet Potatoes
Mashed White Potatoes Spinach
Strawberry Short Cake
Vanilla Ice Cream
Cigars Coffee Cakes

Mr. Grundy, as toastmaster, paid a fine tribute to Mr. Keeler for the excellent work he had performed as chairman during the past three years, and then called on Assistant United States District Attorney John C. Swartley, a former chairman, who, in a clean-cut argument, testified to the progressiveness and the high-minded purposes of the Republicanism of Bucks county He recalled how the party had stepped out into the open and in positive language declared for the reforms that were enacted at the special session of the Legislature, in advance of any knowledge that the Governor was going to re-convene the Legislature for the purpose of enacting the very laws suggested by the Bucks County Republican platform. Mr. Swartley's facts were well marshalled and he presented them in a convincing manner.

Following Mr. Swartley, Mr. Grundy called upon Congressman Wanger, who paid a fine tribute to the abilities of Mr. Keeler. He said he had known the retiring chairman for many years, and he found that Mr. Keeler's knowledge of the people of the county, their habits and their dispositions was of a marvellous nature. His judgment was sound on political matters.

Evan R. Penrose was called upon as the man who had "resurrected" Mr. Keeler. Mr. Penrose told how in the dark days of the judicial campaign, when the Republican candidate for Judge withdrew from the ticket, and it became necessary to elect a new chairman, he thought of E. Wesley Keeler, and went to him and in the gloom that pervaded the whole atmosphere, Mr. Keeler agreed to accept the position and declared, "I'll take it, and by George, I'll pull you through!" How well he did the work is now a matter of history, declared the speaker.

SHELLY'S TALK.

District Attorney Joseph W. Shelly, who served as county chairman for six years, and won five contests, made a happy address. He declared that Mr. Keeler is the only chairman who in twenty-four ours changed a Democratic majority of 2000 to a Republican one of 1500. "And if you don't believe that," said Mr. Shelly, "I can prove it by Judge Yerkes. At ten o'clock at night, the day before the election Judge Yerkes told me that he had a majority of 2000 and the next night at ten o'clock Chairman Keeler counted a majority of 1500 for Stout."

SPOKE FOR THE NEWSPAPERS.

Clarence D. Hotchkiss, one of the editors of the Doylestown Intelligencer, was called upon by Mr. Grundy to speak in behalf of the newspapers. Mr. Hotchkiss declared he was glad that at last the newspapers were recognized. He said that the press of the county had always stood for clean politics and would welcome the new uniform primary law as hereafter the press would "have a finger in the pie." Mr. Hotchkiss spoke of the uniform kindness and frankness with which Chairman Keller had always treated the representatives of the newspapers who went to him for news.

ASSEMBLYMEN TALK A LITTLE.

Assemblyman Joseph S. Thomas told how the reform measures, which Bucks county advocated, got through the Legislature, and mentioned how the representatives from this district, in the 1905 session, were among the very few who were left free to exercise their own judgment in voting upon bills which were pressed for passage by the Durham-McNichol organization.

Assemblymen Cressman declared that in Harrisburg the Bucks county Assemblymen were classed as "reformers" because they would not "go along" on such bills as the judges' pension bill, the anti-Gibboney, Goehring libel bill and other vicious measures.

MR. BEANS' PROMISE.

The newly-elected chairman, Oscar O. Bean, said that it almost made him afraid to "tackle the job" since he had listened to the tales of the wonderful work done by his predecessor, but with the hearty co-operation of the committeemen he would do his best to add more victories to the credit of the Republicans.

THE PARTICIPANTS.

Others present at the luncheon were: Charles M. Meredith, Daniel H. Bilger, John Jeffries, Albert Loechner, John J. Kilcoyne, William H. Hardy, William E. Fitzgerald, John W. Foster, Mahlon M. Fretz, Reuben R. Landis, William J. Dixon, Allen B. Eckert, Arthur C. Shaw, Burroughs Michener, Horace T. Myers, Amos C. Patterson, Wilson W. Delp, A. Base Ball League Formed.

Managers representing several of the teams in the lower end of Bucks county met at the residence of C. C. Riggs, of Langhone, Saturday evening, and took definite action regarding the formation of a league of base ball teams by electing Mr. Riggs president. The other officers elected were B. E. Douglass, Hulmeville, Vice-President; L. B. Sickles, Fallsington, Recording Secretary; Ellis E. Ratcliffe, Bristol, Corresponding Secretary; B. E. Douglass, Treasurer.

While no name has as yet been chosen, the league will probably be known as the Lower Bucks County Base Ball League. A committee consisting of C. C. Riggs, L. B. Sickles and William L. Brandreth was appointed to draft a constitution and by-laws and a final meeting will be held at Langhorne Saturday next to arrange other details and adopt a schedule.

It is confidently expected by the promoters of the league, not only to increase the interest in the sport, but at the same time to lessen the ex penses of the clubs, and by having control of the teams, insure the public good, clean games, thereby increasing the attendance and placing the clubs at least on a self-supporting basis.

The League is not a money making scheme but is done purely in the interest of the sport. The players are all strictly amateur, playing for the pleasure they derive from the game, and if at the end of the season their book shows the slightest balance on the right side, they will feel amply repaid.

New Parish Magazine.

St. Pauls Parish Magazine, Vol. 2, No. 1, had made its appearance and is most creditable in every particular. Paper, print and general make-up are all admirable. The matter is of a kind that will be interesting to all who peruse it. May it prosper for long years to come.

Measles and Quarantine.

Editor Gazette:—With the prevalence of measles in the borough and the apparent ineffectual rules of the local Board of Health, one does not wonder that the disease spreads. I would like some information on the subject. Is the disease communicable? I have been informed and have heard that physicians have alleged that the disease cannot be communicated by a third party. If this is so, why does the Board of Health prohibit a child living in a household where measles have developed from attending school? If the children are compelled to remain away from school, then why, in the name of common sense, is not the home quarantined? If the children are not allowed to go to school, but are permitted to race the streets mingling with other children who have not had the disease where is there any consistency in the Board of Health's regulations? It is about the most absurd and contradictory proceedings of which one can conceive. Some physicians contend that measles is a mild disease which all children are heir to, but parents do not care to plunge their offsprings into a contagion which in one instance at least this week had a sad ending. Will the Board of Health give us a little light on this apparent laxity of their regulations? A MOTHER.

Local Notes.

A fund has been started in the Presbyterian Church at Morrisville for the purchasing of a new pipe organ.

The Morrisville baseball grounds are being turned into building lots. Dr. Woodman has just erected four frame dwellings where the old grandstand was located.

Howard Tomlinson, who has just discontinued storekeeping at Southampton, has rented the farm of Elisha C. Praul near Hulmeville, for some time past tenanted by Emmor Praul.

Mrs. Margaret Killian, aged 77 years, died at her home in Bensalem township, on Monday of paralysis. The funeral will take place tomorrow. Interment at St. Marks grave yard, Bristol.

The Western Union Telegraph Company officials have notified the Trenton police authorities that a hundred miles of wire were stolen between Morrisville and Fallsington, Monday night. The company says that a liberal reward will be paid for the capture of the thieves.

Removal.

After Friday, March 30, my place of business will be 567 Bath street, instead of 568 Swain street. On Monday, April 2, I will have a spring opening of trimmed hats. MISS A. SCHAFFER.

DATES SET FOR CONVENTIONS

County Committee Reorganized, Chairman Elected and Revision of Rules Provided For.

One of the largest attended meetings of the Republican County Committee that has ever taken place was held last Saturday morning in the arbitration room of the Court House at Doylestown. Of the eighty districts in the county, only two or three were unrepresented. Everything was so harmonious that it only required fifteen or twenty minutes to transact the business.

County Chairman E. Wesley Keeler presided, but as he is required to abdicate the office on account of having been appointed postmaster of Doylestown, Oscar O. Bean, Esq., was elected to succeed him as the head of the committee

Mr. Bean made a brief speech thanking the committee for the honor and urging the members to work with him to keep the majorities in the Republican column.

A. Harry Clayton and George W. McIntosh were then re-elected secretaries, and Ely J. Smith, treasurer.

STATE DELEGATES.

It was decided to hold the convention to elect delegates to the State convention, on Monday, April 9, at 11 a. m., in Lenape Hall, Doylestown.

COUNTY CONVENTION.

The county convention will be held in Doylestown on Monday, September 3d.

CONGRESSIONAL CONFERREES.

Chairman Bean was authorized to appoint conferrees to confer with those from Montgomery county to fix a time and place when a candidate for Congress may be nominated.

REVISION OF RULES.

By unanimous consent the chairman was authorized to appoint a committee of five members to revise the party rules governing the holding of elections so that they will conform with the new Reform legislation.

NEW COUNTY CHAIRMAN.

Chairman Oscar O. Bean is the youngest Republican county chairman for many years. He is a member of the Bucks County Bar, County Surveyor and a notary public. He has resided in the County Seat for a number of years and is known as an active young Republican well fitted to take up the leadership of the committee.

Valmore M. Hellyer Dead.

Early yesterday morning, about 5 o'clock, Valmore M. Hellyer, one of the best known men in Doylestown, died at his home on Ashland street of pneumonia, after an illness of about ten days. For several years Mr. Hellyer has been in ill health by reason of severe attacks of rheumatism which had crippled him considerably and interfered with his attention to the business of the firm of A. S. Hellyer's Sons, of which he was a member. The fatal culmination of his last illness was probably due to his poor physical condition.

All Night on the River.

As a result of spending all of Sunday night in the middle of the river in a steam launch, with the temperature near zero and the snow falling now and then and with no protection but his street clothes, Albert Smith, of Florence, is now confined at St. Francis Hospital, Trenton, and is said to be in a serious condition. Smith started for Chester, Pa., Sunday evening in the steam launch. When opposite Bristol the vessel caught on the sand bar at the head of the Island and the lowering tide more firmly imbedded the boat. He tried in every possible way to get aid from shore, but was unable to attract the attention of any person.

Prices of Vegetables Rise.

The scarcity of vegetables in Philadelphia, even those of the ordinary daily consumption, such as cabbage, old potatoes and green peas, has led to a substantial advance in prices. The continued cold weather is given as the cause of the rise. The advance has been fully 10 per cent in the past two weeks. The things most affected are cabbages, now selling at 15 cents a head; green peas, $2 per peck; new potatoes, $1 a peck; spinach, 75 cents a peck; mushrooms, from 40 cents to $1 per pound; string beans, 25 cents a quart tomatoes, $1 a dozen. The rise includes every vegetable on the market. Tomatoes are higher now than in years. Even canned tomatoes could be bought for 50 per cent. less last year than they can today.

Judge Lindsey on Equal Suffrage.

Judge Ben B. Lindsey of the Denver Juvenile Court, has just published a statement in regard to the women's vote in Colorado. He says in part:

"Woman suffrage in Colorado for over ten years has more than demonstrated its justice. No one would dare to propose its repeal; and, if left to the men of the State, any proposition to revoke the right bestowed upon women would be overwhelmingly defeated.

"Many good laws have been obtained in Colorado which would not have been secured but for the power and influence of women.

"At some of the elections in Denver frauds have been committed. Ninety-nine per cent. of these frauds were committed by men, without any connivance or assistance, direct or indirect, from women; but because one per cent. were committed by women, there are ignorant or careless minded people in other States who actually argue that this is a reason for denying women the right to vote. If it were a just reason for denying suffrage to women, it would be ten times greater reason for denying it to men.

"With the exception of a few downtown precincts, where frauds were arranged and carried out entirely by men, with a very occasional and exceptional use of women, the elections in Denver have been more decently and honestly conducted than they were before women had the right to vote. People have no right to judge woman suffrage in Colorado by the election frauds in a few precincts, unless it would be to show why suffrage should be denied to men and restricted to women. As a matter of fact, the only blow for decency that counted, in the last of a series of bad elections in Denver, was delivered by women voters and the very important good that came out of an otherwise questionable election, was the result of woman suffrage. The evil results of that election were in spite of woman suffrage, not because of it, but because of male suffrage, for had there been no men who voted at that election, and if the matter had been left entirely to women, not a corruptionist would have been elected."

FREE ANTITOXIN HEADS OFF DEATH

In Last Four Months Every Diphtheria Patient Treated Promptly and According to Health Commissioner's Instructions Has Recovered.

URGES EARLY DOSAGE

Dr. Dixon Scores a Notable Life-Saving Triumph Among the Poor of Pennsylvania — Hopes For Still Better Record.

The Health Commissioner, Samuel G. Dixon, a couple of months ago announced that use of free antitoxin among diphtheria victims who were too poor to pay for the serum had reduced the death rate to 8.8 per cent. This was a splendid result and showed the great benefits of the State paying for antitoxin for those who might otherwise not be able to procure it and in consequence probably die.

Now Health Commissioner Dixon announces that according to the records compiled in his office he finds that during the four months of November and December, 1905, and January and February, 1906, there has not been a single death from diphtheria where the free use of antitoxin provided by the State has been used within 24 hours after the onset of the disease and in doses recommended in circulars sent out by the Commissioner.

Dr. Dixon attached great importance to this fact, and hopes that the same results will be secured in a far larger number of cases by physicians throughout the State using free antitoxin more promptly.

This prompt use of antitoxin has been urged by Health Commissioner Dixon from the start of the free distribution. He has urged it in his correspondence with fellow-medical men and the local Boards of Health throughout the State, and especially in the circular which is contained in every package of the State's free antitoxin.

"The early use of antitoxin is essential," says Health Commissioner Dixon in this circular, and he endeavors to impress it upon the people by heavily underscoring the words of advice.

In this circular also Dr. Dixon has given general directions for the administration of antitoxin in both curative and immunizing doses that have been found exceedingly helpful to physicians in Pennsylvania. Never less than 3000 units, says Dr. Dixon, should be used for a curative dose; in advanced cases he says to increase the initial curative dose from 3000 to 6000 units.

If improvement is not manifested within six hours following the initial dose, give 6000 units, and if no benefit is to be observed within the following eight to 12 hours, repeat the same until a change for the better can be noticed.

All cases showing croupy symptoms should receive large and often-repeated doses.

Symbols of the "Cloud Fire."

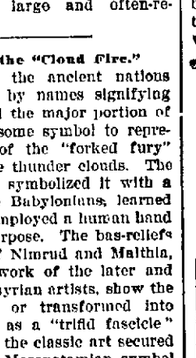
Nearly all of the ancient nations called lightning by names signifying "cloud fire," and the major portion of them employed some symbol to represent the flash of the "forked fury" darting from the thunder clouds. The early Chaldeans symbolized it with a trident, and the Babylonians, learned in mystic lore, employed a human hand for the same purpose. The bas-reliefs of the towers of Nimrud and Malthia, which are the work of the later and more refined Assyrian artists, show the trident doubled or transformed into what is known as a "trifid fascicle." This triumph of the classic art secured for the ancient Mesopotamian symbol the advantage over all other representations of the thunderbolt. The Greeks represented the "storm fire" with the feathers of a bird of prey. Later on, when they had begun to incorporate the Asiatic form of the symbol with their own, they put it in the claws of an eagle and made it the scepter of Zeus. Gaul received the symbol from Italy, but soon altered it to the familiar two headed hammer so common on Gallo-Roman monuments. The same symbol is seen on amulets found in Germany, Scandinavia, England and France.

Buttons Barred.

"Our collection today, my dear brethren," said the rector, "is for the clothing fund. At the same time, may I earnestly impress upon you that, though the collection is for the clothing fund, it is not necessary to contribute buttons."

TIRED OUT.

There's many a wife sits in the growing shadows of an evening, knowing what it is to feel tired out; as if there was not another ounce of effort left in her. But if healthy she knows how sound her slumber will be and how refreshed the morning will find her. But it's another thing for the sick woman to feel tired out. Rest only seems to increase her suffering. She feels acutely the aching back and throbbing nerves.



Sick women, hundreds of thousands of them, have been made well by the use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It establishes regularity, dries weakening drains, heals inflammation and ulceration and cures female weakness.

"I am pleased to inform you of the benefit I received from using Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and 'Golden Medical Discovery,'" writes Mrs. Elizabeth A. Oswold, of 45 Brant Street, Windsor, Essex Co., Ontario, Canada. "Was quite discouraged when I wrote asking your advice, as the physicians here told me I could get no relief except by an operation. Suffered for four years from irregular and profuse menstruation, had sick and nervous headaches most of the time, and at times could hardly walk across the floor from weakness. I thank God there is such a remedy as Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription for suffering women. Before I had taken the first bottle the headaches had left me and it was not long before regularity was established and still continues so. Have just finished house-cleaning which I never expected to be able to do again, and can truly say I never felt better than at present. I gladly recommend 'Favorite Prescription' to all who suffer from female weakness. It has cured me and made me stronger in every way. Neither my husband nor myself can say enough in its praise."

The selfish seller who urges some substitute is thinking of the larger profit he'll make and not of your best good.

SHUTTING OUT THE SEA.

The Massive Sea Wall That Stretches Around Galveston.

Stretching around the eastern limits and continuing entirely along the southern side of Galveston is its massive sea wall, standing as an impregnable defense and an insurmountable barrier against even the greatest storm ever known to have occurred in the gulf, says a writer in Marine Review. This wall symbolizes in its firm construction on a solid foundation not only the absolute future safety of the city, but also that unwavering confidence and unshaken belief of Galvestonians in this location as the supreme harbor of the star empire and the gateway for the vast and limitless resources of the great southwest. The city sea wall was begun Oct. 27, 1902, and the work was completed July 29, 1904, having been carried to a successful conclusion in three months less than the contracted time, which, considering the magnitude of the undertaking, is noteworthy. As an extension of the sea wall around the city of Galveston, the United States government appropriated $591,000 to build about one mile more of wall along the beach in front of Fort Crockett and the federal reserve adjoining the city on the west. The total length of the sea wall is about four and a half miles. It is sixteen feet wide at base, curving to five feet in width at the top, being seventeen feet above mean low tide and one foot higher than in the 1900 storm.

Her Dowry.

When Mrs. Simpson laid down the paper she had been reading she looked thoughtfully at her husband for some moments before she spoke. From across the cold little hall came the sound of Arabella's voice and that of the young man she was soon to marry.

"We haven't got a sign of a dowry for Arabella, pa," said Mrs. Simpson at last.

"What's that?" asked Mr. Simpson, suddenly roused from his perusal of the weekly paper.

"A dowry is things parents give a daughter when she's married, like heirlooms and money and fine linen," said Mrs Simpson impatiently. "You know that, but you've forgotten. Arabella hasn't one thing but the clothes she's made herself. Will wouldn't expect us to give her money, and as they're going to live with his folks she doesn't need the linen, but I wish to mercy we'd got some heirlooms for her."

"Well, why haven't we?" demanded Arabella's father stoutly. "What's the reason she can't have Grandfather Brickett's old powderhorn and flintlock, and the old coonskin cap? She's all the child we've got, and I shan't ever use 'em again. There's his old knife too. I've got me a new one which cuts full as well. I guess we can fit her out and if she wants more let her have the old belluses."—Youth's Companion.
